

Broadband via DSL needs to be deregulated as are all other broadband technologies. It can be a far-reaching viable alternative to compete with cable, satellite, and wireless. Why is only DSL regulated? Investment in this technology cannot be expected if it remains regulated, thereby depriving communities of a valuable tool to compete in today's marketplace.